CORRIDOR

THE PROJECT

Phillips de Pury is a dynamic and forward-looking international auction house, focusing on defining aesthetic movements of the last 50 years. Phillips de Pury specialise in contemporary art, design, editions, photographs and jewellery.

PROJECT OVERVIEW

Phillips de Pury wanted to refurbish their workspace to represent what they do and the way they think - They appointed JAC to help do this.

Utilising all four of JAC's services, Project Management, Design, Furniture Procurement and Cost Consultancy, the refurbishment was completed on time and on budget. Phillips de Pury, a company who prides itself on aesthetics now has an office they can enjoy.

ABOUT THE BUILDING

Clean lines, floor to ceiling windows, expansive rooftop terraces – Howick Place is an environment that has been designed to be good for business. Inspired by an area that has become a magnet for leading luxury and fashion brands, it delivers stylish, light-filled spaces that are a joy to work in.

WORKSPACE

“Working with a client so familiar with identifying, handling and being surrounded by some of the most aesthetic auction items of recent years, the design of Phillips de Pury’s workplace was always going to be a challenge.

We love how the aesthetic design fuses together natural materials to present a clean calming environment that supports an informal work atmosphere. The simplicity, structure and clean lines of the environment create spaciousness and reflect a stunning design.”
