PROJECT OVERVIEW

Each of BGL's brands has its own unique heritage and personality. The brand portfolio includes Comparethemarket.com and BeagleStreet.com

Taking its inspiration from the 20th Century architects who transferred mass manufacturing technology to architectural design, White Collar Factory possesses an industrial aesthetic both inside and out.

"The key challenge for this project was working within the restrictions of a tight construction budget. The team worked tirelessly to overcome several building challenges that they faced along the way."
