"Having been tasked with the project to establish our new global head office in central London it became apparent that for us to manage the project as cost effectively and within relatively tight time lines we would need to engage with a consultancy who could help us navigate our way around engaging and managing the fit-out for our new building.

It was clear from our first conversation that JAC understood our needs, the culture of our business and had a compelling commercial proposition.

We would happily recommend JAC to any organisation looking for expert counsel in the commercial property field."
